Glory be to Galt and to Fred Macfarlane!

Pepsin Gum Beeman is dead. But his chew will go on forever.

Mining stocks continue to boom in San Francisco and sugar stocks hold steady.

The man Siemen, who is being exploited in the San Francisco newspapers, seems to be as vicious a liar as he is a murderer.

Who can beat the record of the San Francisco man, who is being sued for divorce because he stayed out late every night for three years?

President Roosevelt cast his ballot in a polling place over a Chinese laundry here, in the Twelfth of the Fifth, the voters cast their ballots in a Chinese store.

Chinese government is under the control of a woman. But, owing to the peculiarities of Oriental costume, it is still undecided whether this is a case of petticoats or pants government.

Mayor Schnitz and Abe Reuf are each up against five indictments on charges of extortion. Their recent political turn-down would seem to have been punishment enough for men of their calibre.

California elected the entire State Republican ticket. The administration of President Roosevelt was endorsed and a solid Republican delegation was returned to Congress. The Golden Gate state has reason to feel proud.

In the investigation as to the cause of the disaster to the steamer Manchuria, held before the United States inspectors of hulls and boilers in San Francisco, Captain Saunders manfully took all the blame upon himself.

While the Associated Press dispatch from Honolulu to San Francisco was a little premature in that part of its election news which stated that Brown had beaten Jackson, we hope that it will eventually turn out to have been correct.

According to a Washington dispatch it is believed that the retirement of Secretary Hitchcock, as head of the Interior Department, has direct relation to revelations made in connection with land frauds along the Union Pacific railroad.

If the Grand Jury can find any tangible evidence against voters, repeaters, or the use of irregular ballots in the election, nobody will be more pleased than the Bulletin. There is always more or less talk of fraud at election time, and so far without cause. The character of the men appointed as inspectors of election this year should at least be a guarantee of honest work at the polls. The Governor offered a reward for the conviction of any offender on election day, but the money has gone begging.

JAPANESE IMMIGRATION.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The administration is showing interest in the movement to restrict, to some extent, at least, Japanese immigration in the Hawaiian Islands. Commissioner General of Immigration Sargent will leave for Honolulu in a few days to study this matter.

The people of Hawaii, alarmed at the steady increase of Japanese immigration, took up the question of obtaining laborers from Europe. They were successful in inducing Europeans to go to the islands, and two ships are now on their way to Honolulu with immigrants.

As the Bulletin predicted a couple of days ago, and as the foregoing special dispatch to the San Francisco Call confirms, the visit of Immigration Commissioner Sargent is concerned more with the recent increase in Japanese labor to Hawaii than in the arrival of a steamer with a thousand Portuguese. If, as the dispatch states, the people of Hawaii are alarmed at the labor movement from the Orient, then some other interests than those of the planters must have been at work in Washington. The outcome of Mr. Sargent's visit may be very eventful.

THE REFUND BILL.

Congress will meet within three weeks from now, and this is a short session with about two months of actual working time in which it can be hoped that the refund bill may pass the House and reach the President for his signature. Having once reached the President, it will take but a few moments for him to attach his signature to a bill which he has already approved, and which he desires should become a law.

Our chief difficulty, therefore, consists in getting the refund bill through the House, a work that will devolve mainly upon our Delegate. We are not aware that he has been asked whether he will need any special assistance, other than that already provided for his work during the coming session or not, but in our opinion the work to which he can best devote his energy for the interest of the whole Territory is, by pushing the refund bill through to a finish. It will bring to this Territory about $750,000 a year for a number of years, and the money thus appropriated can be devoted, among other things, to the construction of more school buildings in all the counties and this is one of the things most needed in the Territory.

Nearly a year ago Honolulu was enthusiastic over the Refund Bill, and the probable benefits to be derived from it were such as to call for a special delegation of our citizens being sent to Washington, to appear before a Congressional committee and urge its passage. Thanks to Delegate Kuhio, the bill promptly passed the Senate, and the House committee's report was favorable. But it was blocked by the Speaker and is still blocked. What now appears to be needed is the full force of Hawaii's business and political interests turned upon Mr. Cannon, and surely it is worth while that some concerted plan of action be agreed upon, before the Delegate leaves for Washington, as the benefits to be derived are so great. Might it not be well for some of Hawaii's leaders to confer with Mr. Kuhio?

CUBAN INDEPENDENCE.

"Resolved, That the Democratic Party are in favor of the acquisition of the island of Cuba upon such terms as shall be honorable to ourselves and just to Spain."
"To Cuba independence and self-government were assured in the same voice by which war was declared and to the letter this pledge shall be performed."

The first of the foregoing paragraphs, favoring the acquisition of the island of Cuba, is taken from a Democratic platform upon which two of the candidates, Douglas and Breckinridge, ran in 1860.

The second one, assuring independence and self-government to Cuba, is taken from the platform of the Republican party in 1906.
Jefferson, both while President and afterwards, in correspondence with Madison and Monroe, frequently expressed a desire that Cuba should some time become a part of the United States, and the Democratic text book as late as 1888, issued as an official document of the Democratic party, quotes extracts from his letters in support of that statement. President Monroe also expressed himself in favor of making Cuba a part of the United States.

President Polk made a proposition in 1846 for the purchase of the island by the American government for $100,000,000. In 1854 the Ostend manifesto claimed the right of the United States should Spain refuse to sell Cuba, to take and annex it.

The Ostend manifesto, it will be remembered, was an announcement made by President Pierce's Ministers to England, France and Spain (Buchanan, Madison and Soule), in which they suggested that an earnest effort be made to purchase Cuba at a price not to exceed $120,000,000 and added that if this should be refused by Spain "we should be justified by every law, human and divine, in wresting it from Spain; we possess the power," a proposition of which Loring, the historian, says: "The bald iniquity of this proposition amazed honest men in both hemispheres."

Spain having refused to sell, and the sentiment of the world failing to sustain the Democratic proposition to seize the island, Pierce's Administration failed, but that of Buchanan immediately took it up again, and President Buchanan, in three of his annual messages to Congress urged that Cuba ought to be made by purchase a part of the United States. During his term a bill for that purpose was introduced in Congress by Senator Sillid, whose name is well remembered in connection with the Confederate Government, and was sustained by Southern Democrats generally, while the same proposition for obtaining control of the island of Cuba by some process was publicly commended by Jefferson Davis in a speech in his own State during that time.

It is fortunate for the people of Hawaii that the Democratic candidate in the recent election was not elected Delegate to Congress, or he would necessarily have become imbued with the

YOUNG GIRL SLEEPS IN JAIL ALL NIGHT

Nahinu Disobeys Mother Who Causes Her Arrest

or no to questions asked, but none of that for Brady. He was going to tell all about it—and he did.
The trouble happened on Sunday, Nov. 4. Brady and Alex, foregathered at a cafe, where they had drinks together to the extent of $1.50 worth. Later they went up to the John Kaka block, where they drank three buckets of swipes, on top of the three whiskeys they had had earlier in the game. "Alex, wanted to drink wine, but I wouldn't change my drink," said Brady, virtuously. "No, sub; not me sub."

"How'd he come to hit me? He hit me on the head. Can't you see nothing? I can't take off this bandage, can I? Now you jes' listen, an' I'll tell you how it was. You see, it was this way." And with many emphatic gestures and mutterings at the stupidity of lawyers who couldn't let a man talk without interrupting him to ask questions, the voluble Brady went on to tell how after they had reached Garner's home, the latter went in and got a hatchet and came out and hit him on the head with it as he stood at the gate not suspecting any trouble.

"How'd I know it was a hatchet? Well, I calls it a chop ax, but maybe you all calls it a hatchet in this country. How big was it? Well, when it hit my head I thought it was a big ax. Before that it looked like a little hatchet. Before that we was just like brothers, me and him.

"How many times did he hit you?" asked Attorney Andrade.
"He hit me twice," said the injured man. "The first time he hit me, he missed me."

Cross-examination developed the fact that Brady had knocked his friend down twice on the way home, but he didn't think that ought to be any cause for ill-feeling on the part of the man knocked down.
"Didn't you chase Garner home?" asked Andrade.

"Who? Me? No, sub. Why, I wouldn't chase a sucklin' baby. No, sub; not me. I jes' walked along after him, and when I got to his gate, he come out with a hatchet and hit me on the head. Yes, sub." And the injured man assumed a deeply pained look at the perfidiousness of a man who would drink three whiskeys and four buckets of swipes with him and then use an ax on him.

Other witnesses, including the defendant, told their version of the affair, and at the conclusion of the hearing Judge Whitney passed the case on to the Circuit Court.

When the cases against the Chinese arrested for gambling were called up this morning, County Attorney Andrade moved that they be stricken from the calendar. "I am convinced," he said, "that I have no evidence to convict them." The cases were stricken. The Advertiser reporter who was subpoenaed was present but was not called upon to testify.

Kaulahoa, charged with drunkenness, was fined the usual three dollars and costs.
